Your Sonoma home.

We offer spacious and welcoming student housing on campus, with suite and apartment-style options.

Housing at SSU is organized around academic, social, and lifestyle interests, allowing you to more easily connect with students who share your passions.

My name is Grey, I use they, them, theirs pronouns, I'm trans and non-binary, and I'm happy to be in this place where I can be me.

A campus created for connection.

The Sonoma State experience is all about community, and with nearly 200 student-led clubs and organizations on campus, including 20 active sororities and fraternities, there is a place in the Seawolf community for everyone.

Nourishing relationships.

Food fuels the adventurous and curious spirit of our campus, and that community is created through the sharing of meals.

That's why we created The Kitchens, a modern dining hall with long communal tables where you'll connect with fellow Seawolves throughout the day.

A setting that inspires.

Our campus sits in the heart of Sonoma County, nestled between gently sloping hills and rocky mountain peaks, between bustling towns and serene countryside. Just an hour's drive from both San Francisco and spectacular stretches of coastline, there is always something new to discover.

Prioritizing wellness.

We create a culture of care. Our medical and mental health care teams provide support in all areas, including nutrition education, grief counseling, and group workshops in resiliency, learning skills, relationship building, and more.

Supporting growth.

Our student support advisors are immersed in campus life, eager to help you discover leadership roles, engage in mentorship opportunities, build community, and find your niche

Apply for Financial Aid

We understand that students and families are concerned about the rising cost of college.

We encourage you to explore all of your financial aid options — grants, scholarships, work-study opportunities on campus, and loans — so you can pursue your dreams at SSU. Many of our students are pleasantly surprised by how much financial support is available.
